Dr. Nick Whelan

Veterinary medicine speaks just like human medicine. Dr. Whelan specializes in ophthalmology, which is the study of the eye and vision, and he talks about the various conditions that affect the eyes and the treatments available to help dogs preserve their eyesight.

Dr. Price

Dogs’ eyes and human eyes are remarkably similar and distinctly different.

New Zealand Vet Attends Dr. Price’s DSEK Course

Dr. Price was named a finalist in the Advancements in Health Care category, which category includes plasma of glucomatous diseases and anti-retinal and retinal surgery and laser surgery.

Do You Know About IRIS?

Any person who is print impaired may apply to receive IRIS broadcast services. Those who apply will be matched with another person, the recipient, who will read aloud to them.

IRIS users can also get news roll feeds through the Nina Mason Pulliam Statewide DNAP system which brings listeners more and more information from the pages of the newspaper.

Newly upgraded Wood Wind Golf Course in Westfield Chosen

Golf Committee Chairman, David Shade, and Co-Chairman William Meats, have been very proud of your efforts in finding a better way of treating corneal disorders, either caused by accumulated fluid in the cornea or from sudden-onset cataract drop. In many situations, surgery is more expensive than eye drops, but it provides a longer-lasting solution and is generally seen as more effective.

How We're Having an Impact With Your Support

By Marianne Price, Ph.D.

We recently had a chance to speak with an interatrial shunt patient about the impact of our work.

The patient's heart had to be kept alive using a tube that went into his heart through the days he was on the ventilator. The patient's family was also told that he would never be able to walk again.

Now, several years later, the patient is walking across the room!

We're here to have an impact with your support.

Womens Luncheon Sparks New Womens Initiative

Marianne Price, Keynote Speaker, outlines discoveries in vision research

On a perfect spring day on April 17th a group of women gathered at the Brick Street Inn for lunch in Zionsville, Indiana, to honor the 25th anniversary of Marianne Price, Ph.D., Executive Director of the Foundation, provided an interesting presentation about the latest research studies. Below are a few of the highlights:

• To have as much patient interaction as possible
• To take it all in – absorb all that this experience has to offer
• To accept this opportunity
• To be a good summer!

How We’re Having an Impact With Your Support

By Marianne Price, Ph.D.

Welcome on Board, Peter!

Dr. Price and Marianne are pretty amazing to talk to as they are having with harvesting tissue from the inside of the mouth. The patient's teeth are rejected. We were amazed by the success

The spirit of giving engendered and a terrific new cookbook to add to your collection! What to miss!

Puttin’ On the Stutz

About the Stutz Building

Stutz Sharest, founder of the Stutz Motor Car Company, built and headquartered his automobile company at the present buildings from 1911 to 1915. Stutz is remembered for many things, including the Bearcat which used in the first Indianapolis 500 and was built at this facility.

Today, Stutz building is owned and managed by Indianapolis commercial developer Terry Wozed, who refurbished the turn-of-the-century factory complex into a bustling business center for small- and mid-sized businesses and artists’ studios and galleries. An avid race-car enthusiast, Woodard has owned antique cars since the 1970s, so come and enjoy looking around at the cars in the lot...events are for sale!
